International Power Traders Expanding Its Corporate Headquarters

IPT's increasing share of the Latin American market, and its forecasted growth for 2014 and beyond, compelled expansion of company's corporate offices.

Doral, Florida, December 26, 2013 - International Power Traders, a global supplier and buyer of power generation equipment and accessories to and from Latin America, announced today it was expanding its headquarters in Doral, Florida. The announcement was made from inside the American Welding Society Global Headquarters where they currently occupy space on the 2nd floor. The move will relocate operations from the 2nd to the 3rd floor and will allow IPT to incorporate new technological capabilities, increase comfort for customer interactions, and meet both current and future growth needs. The move is expected to be completed in January of 2014.

"Our increasing market share and continuing growth forced us to increase our office space." said Saul Medina, IPT's Sales Manager. "When the chance arose to keep our headquarters in the American Welding Society Building, and in Doral with its strong ties to Latin America's power generation market, we jumped at the opportunity."

IPT is a global source of new and used power generation equipment possessing expertise in the Latin American market. Uniquely positioned within the new, used and surplus power generator industry, IPT offers the region's retail and resale markets a single source for all of their varying power generation needs.
